Fox
Cloud Software & Phone Service
for your own
Telephone Answering Service (TAS)

Your agents can be located virtually anywhere, yet operate as if in one location

- No expensive equipment needed
- No phone lines needed
- No startup fees or contracts

Operate your own Telephone Answering Service (TAS) business using our cloud-based answering service software and phone service. Acting as virtual receptionists, your agents can answer calls and communicate in a variety of ways with your clients and their customers.

You can have an unlimited number of clients from all kinds of businesses and organizations. When calls come in for each of your clients, based on Caller ID, a custom client screen pops up for your agent who answers that call. The agent will be able to personalize their greetings as if they are a member of each of your client's staff. Agents can then transfer calls or take messages and send emails, voicemails, or text messages to those clients.

When ready to begin work, your agents simply log in to your Fox TAS online and immediately start receiving calls. There is NO software to install and NO telephone lines are needed.

We provide a cloud server infrastructure that is built on high-end redundant servers for maximum 24/7 uptime.

You'll also get high level cloud-based security for your telephone answering service with three managing levels: Manager, Agent, Customer

Your management will have access to real time dashboards and reports with a variety of information about client calls and agents. As the operator of this service, you will be able to charge your clients with multiple billing options. (Your clients will never know who we are.)
